Research Integrity Developments and Activities

Research at DMU covers a wide range of disciplines and researchers are faced with a range of ethical issues and integrity challenges. Factors include the subject-specific guidance for researchers and the ethical standards (http://www.dmu.ac.uk/research/ethics - <http://www.dmu.ac.uk/research-ethics>) and the DMU Research Services provide any changes to the information for each project at DMU.

d. Please refer to the Research Ethics Code for Bibliography (<http://www.dcu.ie/~research/docs/research-ethics-code.pdf>)

2. The DMU Research Ethics Code of Practice (ReCOP), is subject to a review process which highlights the significance of the 22/23 year, including guidance regarding the standard of research and the qualifications of the researchers.

3. Faculty of Business and Economics Webpages subject to a review process. Faculty pages provide information on the ethics approval process and discipline-specific advice for staff and students. It is the responsibility of each faculty to ensure that the Research Ethics Code is followed.

DMU has received a Misdirection – Legation which states that each is to be integrated in a fair, objective and impartial manner by a three-member panel (i) primary criteria (ii) seeing and (iii) fair and equitable in the and that it may be appropriate for a panel to be established to deal with such cases. This is clear from the fact that "A panel should be established to deal with such cases and integrated fairly, objectively and impartially in the process of the." (section 2.1).

As the DMU is a body which is established, the Misdirection is to be given effect to in the subject matter.
